Life Begins at 40

It is not often that a woman reaches her fortieth birthday without showing some physical change. The extra puffiness, a few gray hairs, a slightly worn down feeling all herald the beginning of middle age. To compensate for these changes we often find a patina of wisdom, a patience with life and a full respect for daily living. How much can we learn from a person who has lived and mastered life! With this in mind the yearbook staff set out to visit our Alma Mater to see what we could learn about our West Side family.

West Side High School is celebrating the fortieth birthday of her first graduating class. To our surprise, she showed few physical changes. True that years have added to her birth but her carriage and form are as spry and fit as when she was one year old. She greeted us with warmth and put us quickly at ease.

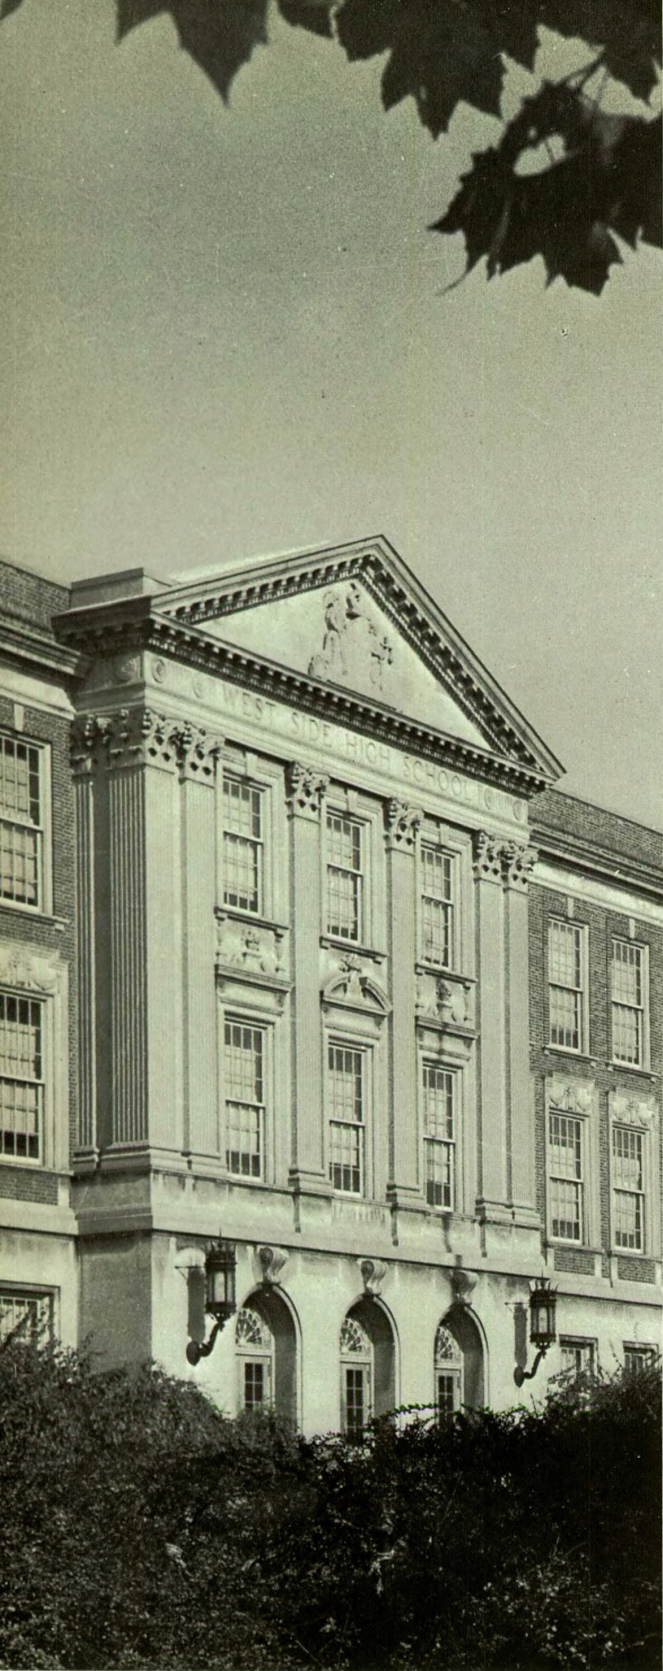

We wanted to know about the fads and achievements of yesteryear and Alma Mater told us a very interesting and enlightening story.

"I remember it very well. My first class! Of course, I was nervous. I had never had children of my own and suddenly I was given charge of so many. You feel particularly close to the first, and my first class was composed of darlings. They were bright and determined to be successful. I have a picture here for you to see.

This was the faculty. They've gone now to other assignments for that giant classroom in the sky. How the class loved them! Their humor and dedication made them very close to the student body.

I can recall the first graduation class as though it were yesterday. Young folk of today think you have the corner on wild things. The mini-skirts are nothing compared to the flapper dresses of the twenties. Your dances even are only reproductions of the Charleston era. I get a sentimental pang for the boys of '28 everytime I see one of your classmates in bell bottoms. In the twenties radios and talkies were the word. Lunch time would find the students "go-go" over Rudy Vallee and latest film made by Rudolph Valentino. The children worked hard in school and clubs were very active. After a busy school day they'd rush home to do homework, and when that was finished they'd "rock the carpet" and dance to tunes played on the gramophone. There were also fads ranging from live goldfish eating to crossword puzzles. Sports were popular and the football team played games with Glen Ridge, Bloomfield and Seton Hall. They had their heroes and idolized them. They came, they saw, they conquered my heart. I was very proud as I saw the first graduating class leave my home and go on to success.

There was a pause as Alma Mater dwelled on the happy days of her youth. Suddenly she regained her composure and resumed her talk.

Faculty
Wow! What a faculty with all their mink coats and pin striped

"The 30's were funny years, modern, determined and yet the depression gave the students a certain sensibility. Their main topic of conversation was the new Empire State Building and the Golden Gate Bridge. The students wore softer lined clothing and skirts were longer. Movies were at their peak and people were thrilled by the Cat and the Canary. Gone with the Wind the all time box-office prize was released. Walt Disney made his first cartoon, its fame spread all over the United States and the world. In fact, his cartoons were so good that they won the Academy awards for eight consecutive years, and they weren't even in color. In the evening, after homework was finished the families gathered around the radio to enjoy Jack Benny and Amos 'n Andy. Although, Shirley Temple, was the darling of the public, I remember the West Side girls imitated the beautiful Ginger Rogers. The boys were influenced by the sophisticated Fred Astaire. Dances were varied from the romantic fox-trot to the Big-apple. In order to be "in" in those days you had to watch your trucking and Suzie-Q. Music was equally varied. The students hummed such favorites as You Are My Lucky Star and Sweet Little Alice Blue Gown. There were the usual crazy tunes with mixed-up words which confuse adults of all generations; Shrimpers and rise are very nice, indeed! The biggest news in the late 30's was the Worlds Fair. I look back now and remember the developments and inventions of these projects are now household items.

Everything would have been very pleasant but the early 40's brought war. I suppose we all recover with time, but still I wonder? I enjoyed the students of the 40's most of all. I just coming of age and as you young people might say, things were really swinging. The jitter bugs were doing the Lindy to the music of the big bands, Glen Miller, the Dorsey Brothers and Duke Ellington. "Zoot suits with a reet-pleat" were uniform for the boys. The girls came to class in pleated skirts with "Sloppy-Joe" sweaters; saddle shoes and anklets completed the outfit."

We looked at Alma Mater as though she were speaking Greek. She looked up and gave us a motherly smile. "I almost forgot you aren't hip enough to dig my meaning. Zoot suits were jackets with wide lapels, shoulder pads and a long cit."

Band
Can you imagine the kind of music this band played? Maybe music for the Red Cross?

Swimming
Coach Dispenzier led these water mermen on to victory
My! What skinny legs you have
Better to swim with my dear.

We gave a smile of understanding she continued. "The forties saw our students changing their school clothes for uniforms. School work was one part of a busy student day. The girls and the younger boys worked after school in the war effort, either as Red-Cross aids or relieving an office worker for defense purposes. Many a letter was written in the cafeteria or wedged in between classes. Music was either patriotic as "The White Cliffs of Dover" or side stepped the seriousness of the war "Marezie-Dotes" or "Laura". Even with the man shortage school teams were going strong. As ever, films were the mainstay of entertainment; many of you still see on television. Alice Faye, Betty Grable, John Payne, and Carmen Miranda were grinding out musical-comedies which usually had patriotic leanings. How many films ended with the Andrew Sisters carrying our flag on a battleship, while a cast of hundreds in various patriotic costumes waved and sang "When the Lights Go On Again?" Our students accepted the privations and disappointments of war. Despite the long bus lines, they arrived on time. When prom dates were in service, they bravely sat at home. When called to do more than what is usually expected of a student; they gladly responded. "Alma Mater stopped and mused perhaps remembering her sons who died for their country. She brightened up a bit and continued, "V-E and V-J Day in the United States were days of complete chaos. People were happy and thankful that their loveones were safe. After the war a period of prosperity came to America. Soldiers returned to face such problems as job readjustment and a housing shortage. West Siders continued to lead a full school life. Frank Sinatra and Bing Crosby were the leading pop singers. I guess you know these two as older men now, but in the forties the police had to hold back throngs of "bobby-soxers" who crowded around these personalities. I can remember the student dances with songs as "Prisoner of Love," "Heartaches" and "Linda." The students dress changed. With the end of rationing they could have many pairs of shoes. Suede loafers with composition soles gave way to real leather shoes. The "New-look" arrived from Paris. Girls began to wear dresses with hem-lines an inch or two above the ankle. The men began a trend toward color in clothes, perhaps a reaction to the drab-colored military uniforms, and bold checked jackets with wide color splashed ties were in vogue. It was a much different world in 1949 than that of 1940.

The fifties were the year of the now so-called, silent generation. The students at this time were serious, co-operative and dedicated. Beneath their youthful exterior there was a surprising maturity. They look to school as the natural means toward their goals. West Side life was different radio and movies were losing footage to the television. "Uncle-Milton Berle" and "Fireside theatre" were the topic of discussion. "I'll give you a shot in the head" or "I'll kill your a million times" replaced the outgoing "hubba-hubba" or "Kilroy" clique. The addition of the crinoline to the long skirts gave girls a softness reminiscent of the pre-civil war period. Hair was cut short in imitation or respect to Ingrid Bergmans portrayal of Saint Joan. The roller derby became the sport to follow after a week at school. Report cards, clubs, and election of class officers were very special occasions for the students. Drivers' education was added to the curriculum. Music was varied from Montivani and his romantic strings through calypso beat to the insanity of Rock'n Roll. Toward the latter years of the decade, America was invaded by the "beat-nik."

Alma Mater broke off here. The determined look in her eyes we know better than to pursue that subject.

A smile came over Maters face. "What's to say, man? Do my West Side kinds dig me? Listen Babe, I had this scene and I groove the most." Her answer to our stunned faces was a long laugh. She collected herself to tell the tale of her youngest graduates. "Really, the children of the sixties see, to have everyone running wild. I sit back and relax. I've been through too many things to think that the "mini-skirts" is going to end civilization. What's a mini-skirt except the same thing I saw years ago. Dances? Is the Funky-broadway" etc any less crazy than the Charleston? Leave it to the young, I say. I tried to do one of their dances and was laid up for a week. Music? I wonder if any tunes give promise of dedication as "The Impossible Dream?"

Cheerleaders

These are the girls that led the school in victory. Check the costumes out.

"Yes, the students of the sixties reflect the same thoughts as those years ago. They learn about themselves, study others, think, resolve to go into the world and improve it. And they do. Each class plays its part in the process of civilization. This is my reason for being, my pride and satisfaction.

Soon they'll be leaving, this class of '68. I've worked hard and enjoyed them. I've done all I can. Soon they must leave their home and go on to others.

Alam Mater looked tired. It was time for her summer nap. She raised her head and said, "The sixties are your years, you tell me about them." We looked at each other hesitantly and finally some one said, "There's not too much that we can tell you that you don't already know". You have seen over 40 graduating classes pass through your door-staking that first plunge into life. Perhaps without your help some of those students wouldn't have succeeded in life. This has been your story not ours; we just have the pleasure of being your fortieth graduating class. We salute and praise you for giving us the foundation needed to enter into the world. Most important of all we give you our sincere thanks.

Now we come to the good old 60's, and the Hallelujah Babies are singing.

Mr. Charles Brodsky Principal

Mr. Alan Johnson
First Principal

The old suits with the wide collar jackets and cuffed pants have changed, but schools have not. In the 1920's and 1930's schools needed someone to set a pattern to be followed, someone to help students and help teacher's face situations. This person needed patience and tolerance necessary to meet and solve all problems of the school. When West Side opened Mr. Allen Johnson was principal. He had definite ideas about how to foster success in students. The students knew the principal of West Side was boss.

Our principal, Mr. Charles Brodsky carries on in the West Side Tradition. He is aware of the difficulties facing our school and its students in this time of great academic change. He knows that students' success in the future will depend on how well they are educated. Our principal is doing everything possible to maintain our school's high standards of education so that each and everyone of us, will have a highly successfull and productive future.

We want Mr. Brodsky to know that we appreciate the fact that he is a leader and pacesetter at West Side. We, the 40th anniversary graduating class would Brodsky to say "Thanks," to Mr. Brodsky.

Mr. Alvin Panzer
Vice-Principal

In 1928 West Side acquired its first vice principal, Mrs. Bernice Hamilton. She was an example and friend to the students of West Side. Today we have another outstanding vice principal, Mr. Panzer. His assistance and understanding is most helpful to students. Mr. Panzer lends a helping hand to all of those whose goal is success. He'll consider all problems whether they're large or small.

Mr. Panzer is constantly telling us to open the door, to the knock of success and to make a pattern of our own. Because of his kind consideration and devotion, Mr. Panzer is greatly admired at West Side.

We, the class of June 68, wish him success in his future years at West Side.

Robert Lett
Assistant to the Principal

The world has advanced from primitive conditions to the present day Space Age. Even though the world undergoes changes the people remain the same. Dignity and quality is still recognized by our society today. West Side has been fortunate for years to have such good discipline personnel. In 1928 Mrs. Bernice Hamilton, former vice-president, doubled as both advisor and discipline director. This position is now filled by Mr. Robert Lett, assistant to the principal.

His ability to cope with different matters, pleasant or unpleasant, has made him known and recognized by the students of West Side. Such a man will never be forgotten but will stay in the memories of all West Siders.

The cycle from flapper dresses to mini skirts leaves one wondering if forty years makes much difference. The 1928 graduating class of West Side set aside a page in their yearbook to thank Mr. Charles E. Dull, their class advisor, for his guidance. We the 1968 class find ourselves equally debted to Mrs. Lois Thomas and Mr. Gerald Klass.

How can we thank two people who brought us such happiness and good times?

In the 20's students crowded the halls, rooms, and cafeteria just as they do now. They were faced with some of the same problems. Students haven't changed much and they still rely on adult understanding and willingness to help.

Our class advisors have helped us plan activities that'll be forever remembered. We, the 40th anniversary graduating class wish to extend an appreciation and thanks to our class advisors and friends, Mrs. Thomas and Mr. Klass.

Guidance Counselors

Everyone, at one time or the other, wants some sort of love and affection to soothe their wounds and lend a helping hand when needed. Let's reminisce about 40 years. In 1928 West Side didn't have a Guidance Department.

The students received their advice and counseling from Mrs. Bernice Hamilton, former vice-principal of West Side. The passing years have seen formed a well-organized guidance department that has cajoled us into taking things that will help us in the future.

Even though the staff has been put through trying moments and many ordeals, they still maintained their objective of opening our eyes to greater opportunities.

While attending West Side we have received advice and Counseling from Mrs. Alice Norton, head counselor, Mrs. Eleanor Korfmann and Mrs. Frances Kaplan, our class guidance counselors.

We, the graduating class of '68, express our sincere gratitude to the guidance department for being an everlasting beacon in the sea of life.

HOMEROOMS ON REVIEW

Each class has characteristics which identify the group and make it as individual as a human being. As we come to know people and associate them with outstanding traits; we can also come to know homerooms and their traits.

201 This homeroom has received the title, "Most Happy Go Lucky" because of their warm nature and smiling faces. This trait is true of many of our seniors, but the majority are in this homeroom.

206 This senior homeroom has received the title of "Most Carefree" because of the delightful and cheerful students that are found in this homeroom. They constantly seem pleased with everything and are forever happy and pleasant. It is true that there are things that all students cannot agree on but this one big family in homeroom 206 is fortunate being able to agree on most of its problems. It is good to see a homeroom so cheerful and bright and we can only hope others will follow their example.

209 "Most Considerate" has been given to this homeroom because of their thoughtfulness and regards for others feelings. Their warm hearts and open hands will remain in our hearts for a life time.

219 The "Most Liberal" senior homeroom can be classified as 219 because of its considerable majority of broad-minded students. The students of this homeroom are very kind and tolerant to each other as well as their fellow-class mates. The generosity that these students offer can never be repaid. They think very highly of others generous acts as well as liberality. We would like to say thank you for being a part of our senior class.

223 Beyond a shadow of a doubt, this homeroom is the "Most Athletic" because of the great majority of students that represents the football, basketball, and cheering squad. Their skillful role in each of these categories can best describe how they obtained this title. We wish you lots of luck in your future athletic years.

300 Mr. Repoli, arrived at West Side this year and was assigned to a homeroom which displayed excellent leadership. Their connections with the Lamp, Student Advisory, chorus, cheering, football, and basketball squad has been enough evidence for them to receive the title "Most Representative."

302 There isn't much you can say about this homeroom. The students constant ability to receive honors for themselves, their family and school has proven them to be very successful. To this homeroom, we wish the best of everything and we sincerely hope they use the title "Most Likely to Succeed" wisely.

314 "Most Original" best fits this homeroom because of the creative and inventive minds that are in it. Their constant ability to create new fangled and new fashioned ideas has aided this graduating class a great deal. Their novel ideas prove to be very successful in this modern society.

320 The primary duty of a scholar is to be schooled and master what the schools can teach. This best describes Mr. Aslanian's homeroom because of a great number that fill these qualifications to a great extent. To you, we extend our gratitude for being part of our class and hope you used the title "Most Scholarly" honorably.

To the Senior class, we wish to extend best wishes in your future years.

The Lamp

After the following sections were completed the hectic pace was slowed down somewhat. The only thing which remained was the feature section of the book which consisted of feature articles, clubs, and sports. The Feature Editor of this year's Lamp was Veleria Brown. It was her job to see that every senior's name appeared in that section. The job of covering the sports was left up to Lamar Laster who did a great job indeed. As in all successful organizations leaders are needed. It was the Lamp's privilege of having two leaders, Sandra Grace and Philip Easton who were Co-Editors of the yearbook. It was their job to see that arguments were kept down to a minimum and see that deadlines were made. Although deadlines were missed and arguments did occur, it is safe to assume that everyone enjoyed himself. We can congratulate each other and the class of 1968 for a job well done.

As the year comes to a close so does the work of the 1968 yearbook staff. The staff has contributed its time and effort to make this year's Lamp one of the best yet. Under the watchful eyes and guidance of Mr. Thomas Hunt, the advisor of the Lamp, they have gathered together and recorded data for the yearbook. But a good yearbook can not just be thrown together, it must be planned.

This action started back in September. The Art Editor, Cyé Newman; designed the cover and every page. An interesting cover is necessary to draw the attention of people, but the contents of the book are more important to keep the senior attention. This was done by the Layout designs of Tony Latham, and the fine literary work by Mary Johnson, who were both Editors. In life as well as business, things must be neatly done and easily read. The secretarial burden fell on two Typing Editors, Valerie Thomas and Lisa Douglas. Their typing staff which consisted of Debbie Avery, Darlene Robinson, and Alberta Lomax. Colzie James and Patricia Shorter did some of the proof reading. Designs, ideas and literary work are important but, the backbone of the yearbook is the pictures. The task of sorting pictures and making appointments with the photographer was left up to Mae Smith who was the Photography Editor. It was her job to keep the pictures together and make sure none were lost or stolen, which was a job in itself.

A Cheer for the Leaders

Jean Jackson, Captain

Theartis Mansfield

Jacqueline Lewis

Beverly Baskerville

The art of cheerleading has been a tradition at West Side for many years. The first cheerleaders were introduced to West Side in 1933. At this time, the squad consisted of five boys that had the job of enlivening the team and the school with school spirit. The males held the position until 1946, when the first girl cheerleaders were presented to the school.

From 1946 to the present, we have had female cheerleaders representing our school. They have given their dedication and determination to the school and team by cheering our boys on to victory.

Because of their hard work, long hours, and trying moments the cheerleading squad has developed into a fine example of outstanding character. We salute and compliment the cheerleaders on a job well done.

Twirlers

The glamorous twirlers began in September 1941 with Mrs. Hermaine Leitner as advisor. The competition was stiff, there was night training sessions, and the girls taught each other. The selected squad consisted of thirty or forty skilled girls.

The uniforms were some what different twenty-six years ago. They were green gabardine suits with homemade white epaulettes. Green felt hats with a white feather, and white rubber boots completed the outfit. The uniforms were below the knee. Today the uniforms are different! Shorter skirts, leather boots and smaller hats make up the uniform.

In 1941 names like Audrey Fitts, Maurice Doris E. Johnson, Ellen Kane, and Mary Judge (who teaches under the name of Mrs. Bolger), established the twirlers fame. Today names like Captain Theresa Lester, Co-Captain Dianne Matthews and Jeanne Panaggio and Drum Majorette Susan Anistranski lead the squad of skilled West Siders to success.

West Side has always had a great twirling squad and this year the girls reached a new high for a group which has always held perfection as a standard.

What does it take to have a good football team? Some would say it's a good coaching staff. Others have said that it depends upon team personnel. Whatever the ingredients are, we, managed to salvage all of them this year. We put them together, and lo and behold we had a great team. The kelly green clad Roughriders brought pride back to dear old West Side, and gave us a reputation that will be long remembered by all.

With superb running from our speedy backfield which consisted of players like Paul Brundridge, Greg Walton, Bruce Allen and Irving Callender and a fearsome line has no equal, the "Roughriders tromped all that came into their paths". Linemen like Steve Roberts, Wayne Zackery, Charles Walker, Buzzy Williams, Joseph Martin, and Joe Snead, (all of whom weigh over 200 lbs.) added the finishing touches to an offense that could strike with blinding speed, from anywhere on the field.

We all know, however, that defense makes the club, and ours did just that. West Sides' defense was one of the best in the state, never giving an inch without a fight. Defensive specialists like Lamar Laster, Jeffery Vaghn, James Anderson and a host of the above mentioned offensive players made this stone like defense the best ever produced by West Side.

Who brought these many elements together in such perfect order? Why the unsung hero's of every team of course.

We now give our sincere thanks to West Side's football coaching staff for they are truly the reason for our great success this year. Thank you linecoach Tony D'agostino and backfield coach Vincent Minstreta. Last but not never least, we extend our humbled thanks to Mr. Thomas "Jerk Jersey" Higgins, who heads this pot bellied staff, for a job well done.

Thank you all, players, coaches, students and faculty for making this year so dear to our hearts.

Spikes on Heels

This year was a good year for the West Side High Track team. Captain Leon Herbert and Irving Callender set the pace for the other roughriders who make this marvelous display of athletes. Herbert a four year man is looking forward to trying to set a new city-league record in the high-jump. Callender says that he has everything under control in the 220 and 440 if he gets a little help from senior Anthony Wilkins. Charles Walker dares anyone to come into his events, (Discus and shot-put) with the idea of playing anywhere other than last. Others who make this season an almost sure fire success are those five horsemen from the cross country team, Ronald Coleman, Leslie Pleasant, Ronald Alston, Larry Johnson, and Martin Hoffer.

Others who will be scoring high in this years competition are: #1 hurtler Phillip Taylor, sprint star David Anderson, James Daniels, and Greg Walton. The class of 1968 only has one thing to say to these dynamic trackmen "go for yourself and more power to you."

Picked to be city or co-city champions the West Side Court Kings set out to prove why this prediction was made. The cry was heard throughout the city that West Side was on the move and was not to be stopped. There was no team in this years tough city league that didn't feel defeat at the hands of West Side High School. Angry because they were not ranked as a leading State contender; the Roughriders prepared to meet Central, #1 in the city, for the second time. Due to the loss to Central in the opening game and not being considered in the State was just the panacea needed to give West Side the fury to win. Central was literally swamped. This win entitled, us to be ranked as 13th in the state and a shot at the state crown in the Atlantic City tournaments.

All of this would not have been possible if it had not been for leadership. This job was fulfilled by a good coach and a good captain. Jimmy Smith was that captain and the best defensive man on the team. With most of the offense coming from fantastic shooting by John Snow, Dannie Miller, Wayne Zachary, and Aulcie Perry. West Side could not be touched. Individually they were all matchless. Snow was one of the leading scorers in the State averaging close to twenty-two points a game.

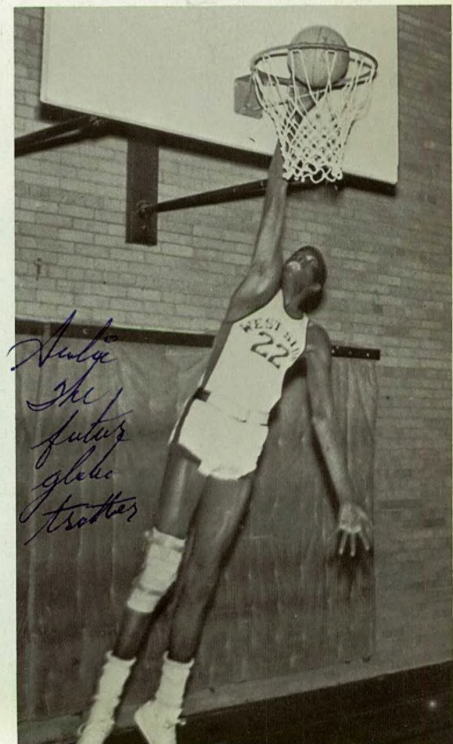

Aulcie Perry literally ruled the boards against all competition. His board mates Dannie Miller and Wayne Zachary had two of the best corner shots in the city. With these boys playing for us how could we possibly lose.

SOCCER

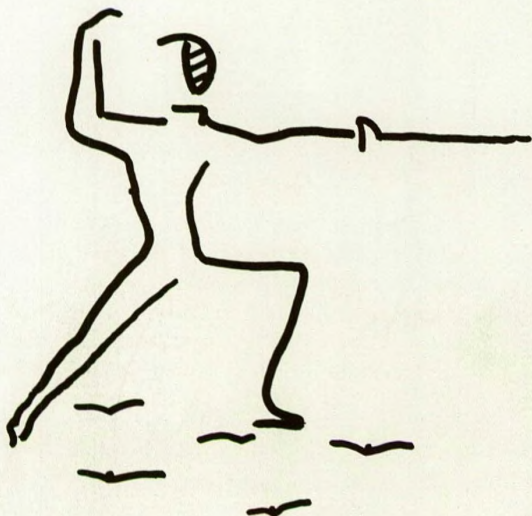

THAT WAS THE YEAR THAT WAS

That is just what our soccer players thought at the close of the season. The leaders of the team were Peter Loguidice, Frank Fields, James Monroe, and Stephen Attles. These boys led the team to a 2-6-2 record. The senior class would like to thank these people for a job well done.

FENCING

Wait Till Next Year

This year's fencing team had the unfortunate luck not to have a single senior on the team.

This might be one of the reasons for a mediocre season. Most of the juniors and sophomores however declare that next years team will be a strong contender for a first place spot in the city.

To you, we wish best of luck next season.

CROSS-COUNTRY

As the cross-country season comes to the end we find West Side on the top of the pile. These fleet footed Harriers have crushed all opposing schools in city league competition to become undefeated city champs. The team was sparked by the fine running of Captain Robert Coleman and the leadership of Sharpe James. The other senior on the squad was Ronald Alston who also did a marvelous job to keep West Side in the front. Next year's team will be led by this year's co-captain Leslie Pleasant who scored for West Side this year.

Not only did the cross-country team compete in the city but also in state, county and invitational meets. The team placed first in the Roselle Catholic Turkey Trot, third in the Essex County meet Championship and fourth in the State finals. We of the senior class would like to thank and congratulate the team for a job well done.

A Rough Dip

Yes, it was a rough season for the West Side "Mermen," but far from being disastrous. With competition as keen as shark's teeth, these amphibious Roughriders came closer to breaking the 500% mark with a final 5-7 record in this always tough city league competition.

Nevertheless, with all the problems that involved the swimming team certain personalities emerged as great swimmers that could hold their own against any person or persons.

There was no one captain of the swimming team, but tri-captains. These boys were said to have scored over 300 points together. These triumphant mermen were: Jeffrey James, Anthony Green, and Andrew Daniels, all are underclassmen who will be back next year.

Jeffrey James, says Coach Gadson, was a utility man; meaning he could do anything and most of the season he did just that. Others who emerged as above average were James Walter and at last our only senior swimmer Anthony Wilkins.

Walter was said to be the most improved swimmer, and Wilkins is said to be the most determined swimmer to reach West Side.

To all of these boys the Senior Class of "68" says thank you for your valiant efforts.

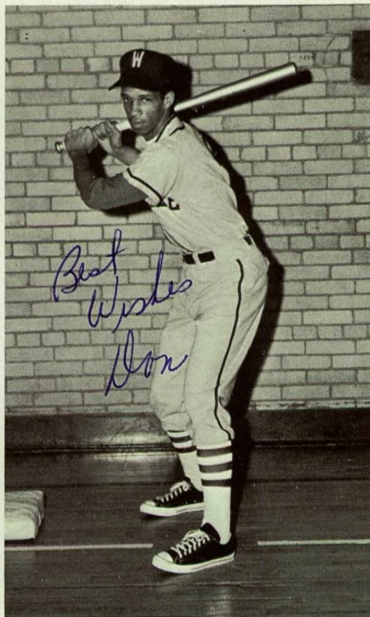

1. to r. Henry Washington, Pete Logudice, Don Fenner, Larry Allen, Robert Fields, and Joe Pelligrino

As always the baseball season opened, with the daily practice sessions in the boys gym. Coach Dispenziere was very optimistic about this years team. Who wouldn't be? After all, with boys like Captain Donald Fenner an all-city centerfielder and first baseman for two years running, and Co-captain Peter Logudice an all around ball-player, how could one help but be optimistic. Other players that have caught Mr. D's eye are second year men, Henry Washington, Gregory Walton, and Joesph Peli-grino. These boys have gained much praise from their coach and are making showing in this years race for the city-championship.

WRESTLING

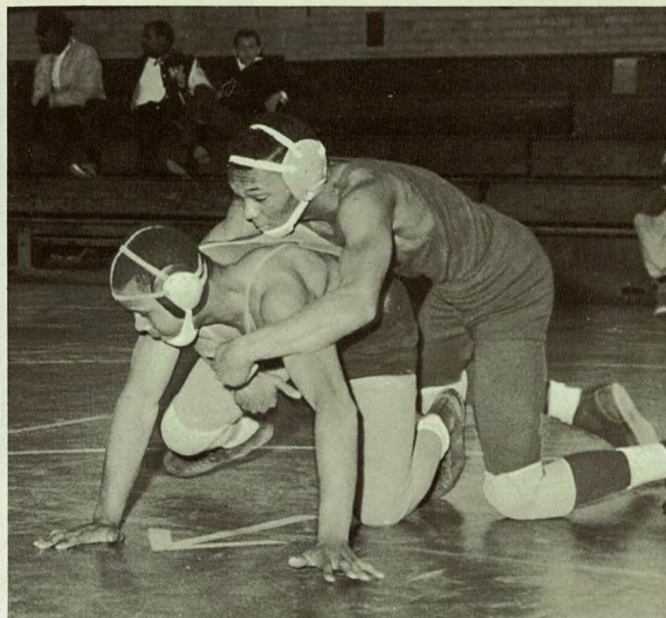

"They Were There"

That was the story of this years wrestling team. Under the leadership of Mr. Ken Waters, and the fine wrestling talent of Ken Washington the team advanced rapidly to perfection. We the senior class would like to thank the boys for their effort and time in the little talked about sport.

A Day of Absence

On and Off Broadway was a two part production sponsored by the senior class. The class cast of ambitious, dedicated and talented seniors presented a one act play entitled "A Day of Absence."

Costumes, scenery and grease paint transferred students into members of a southern community faced with the problem of living without Negroes for a day.

Under the direction of West Side's own Mrs. Eleanor Goldenberg, the class carried off the play with success. It was a proud affair and marked the beginning of the end of senior activities.

Musical

Another opening another show is only way to describe the musical part of "On and Off Broadway." It consisted of musical excerpts from "Porgy & Bess," dances, and other songs.

This part of our play vented the endless talents which many seniors displayed throughout the production and weeks of rehearsal.

The musical production needed two directors, Mrs. Kac. Thompson Payne, choreographer and Mr. Fred Martin, musical director. Their great talents shall never be forgotten.

"On and Off Broadway" proved to be ultra exciting and shall linger in our memories in future years.

Since the school was built 40 years ago, we have had numerous yearbook advisers.

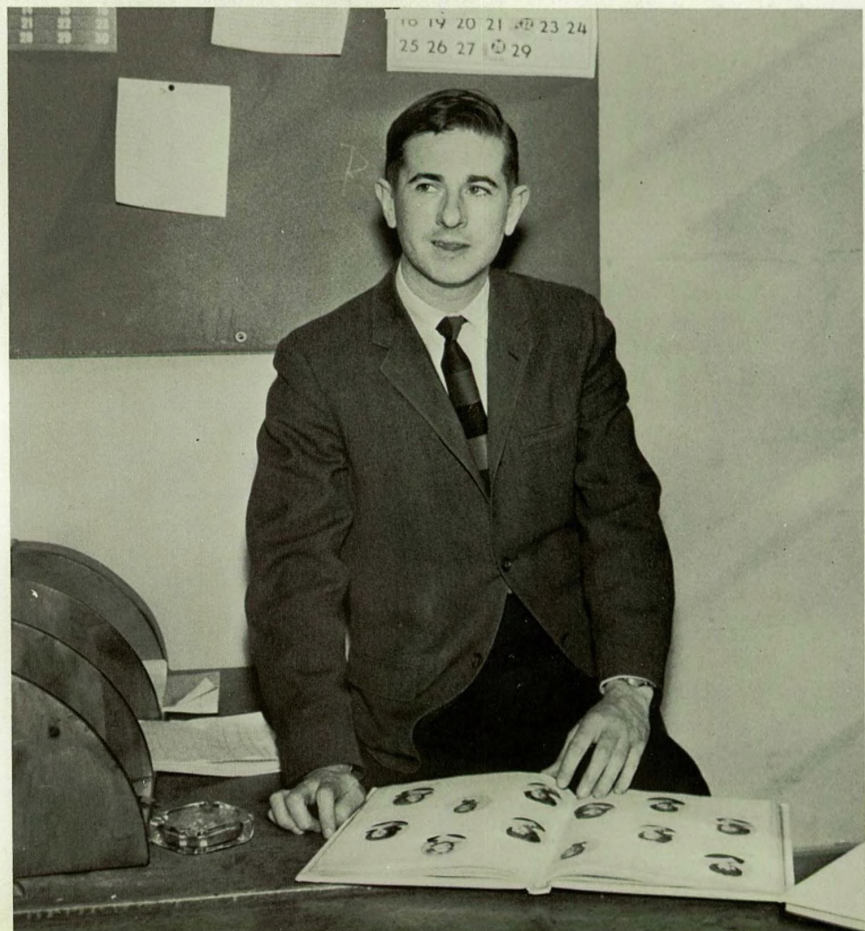

West Side is fortunate to have on its staff a man who has worked on the yearbook for six years. This is no other than our well-liked teacher, Mr. Hunt.

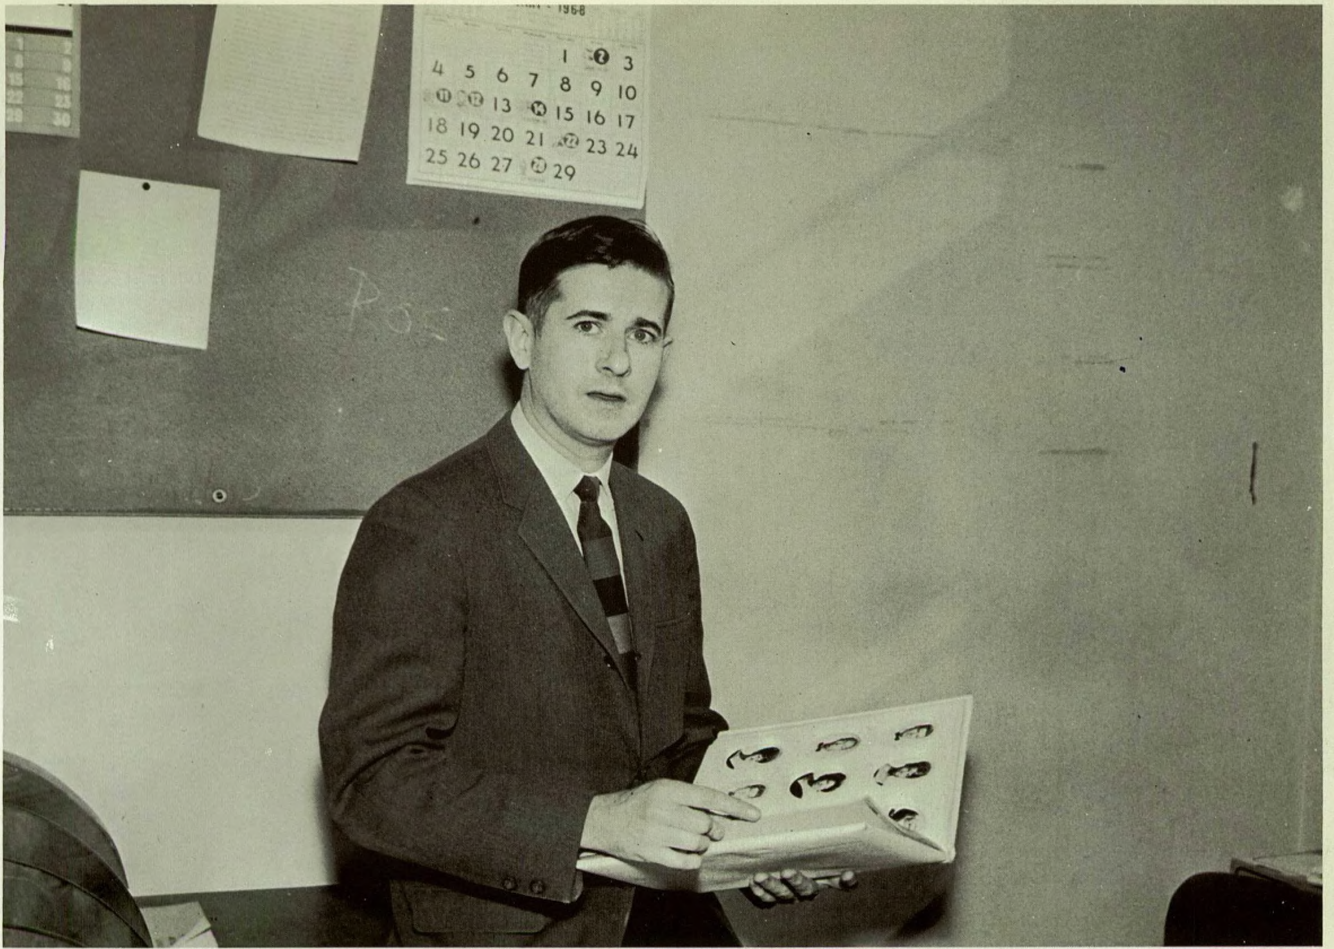

Mr. Hunt is an English teacher, married and has four children in school. Aside from his responsibilities to his family and students he has denoted a great deal of his time to helping six senior classes with their yearbooks.

With his talent and creativity he has always found the answer to the problems we have encountered.

His work with the students has been outstanding. He has sacrificed lunch and leisure by denoting his time and loyalty to aiding his staff. Many times he has had a group of students working at his home with him to meet a deadline.

Through all this rush and hard work he has always managed to cheer them with a smile.

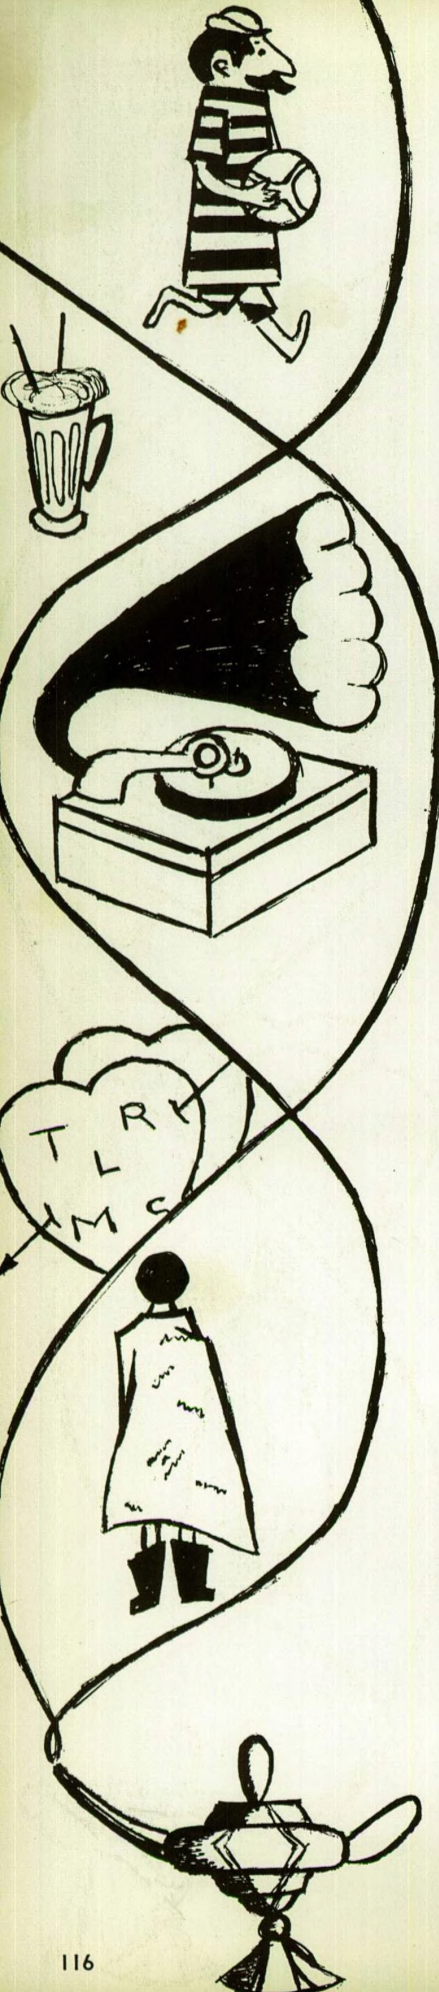

Mr. Hunt has taught us the wisdom of cooperating with others by accepting and using the ideas of the staff.

At the same time, he has emphasized the value of having aims and purposes and setting high standards for one's work.

To you, Thomas Padraic Hunt, there is no reward that can adequately honor you for what you have done, but we hope that our grateful thanks may in a slight measure show our understanding and appreciation.

Class Will

We, the Graduating Class of June 1968 of West Side High School being of brilliant mind, though a bit fuzzy around the edges, do hereby make this our last will and testament.

Out of the goodness of our hearts we bequeath the following:

To West Side: Our love and escalatooes to help the students keep up with their schedules.

To the Administration: Fond memories of the class of '68 and the inspirational words "Keep the faith, Baby."

To the Faculty: Help them keep the faith.

To Our Class Advisors: A special place in our hearts for our all time favorites, Mrs. Thomas and Mr. Klass.

Leon Herbert: A simplified pamphlet on how to approach high school basketball.

Sidney and Bradley Parham: barbershop clippers . . .

Alberta Lomax: a million dollars to match her personality.

Dainne Evans: a new pair of designer made gym socks.

Sharon Williams: a new copy of the Phyllis Diller joke book.

William Grant: a new set of cymbals.

Linda Harris: continued success at Foodtown.

Tony Latham: someone to listen and sympathize with his year-book problems.

Valerie Thomas: our admiration for being the sweetest Westonian in our class.

Ronald Alston: a new sweat suit.

Regina Sturdivant: a school calendar.

Denise Miller: a lamp to see her through years of nursing.

Jessica Roberts: enough thread and material to see her on her way as fashion designer.

Pamela Vasilakis: a blonde wig to complete the Melina Mercue effect.

Marie Smith: patience to keep a job.

Betty Frazier: a book on "Personal Adjustment."

Gene Faulk: The comic book Peanut Head.

Christine Hargrove: European hairpiece.

Anthony Beachum: a package of Beechnut gum.

Richard Graves: shining armor to match his manners.

Deborah Dabney: a sweet smile to brighten the school day.

Marsha O'Neal: a pair of extra long stockings.

Carol Smith: a normal attitude concerning the future.

Maximina Diaz: thinking about the wedding bouquet.

Wilbert Drake: a Drake's cake to have given you strength during school year.

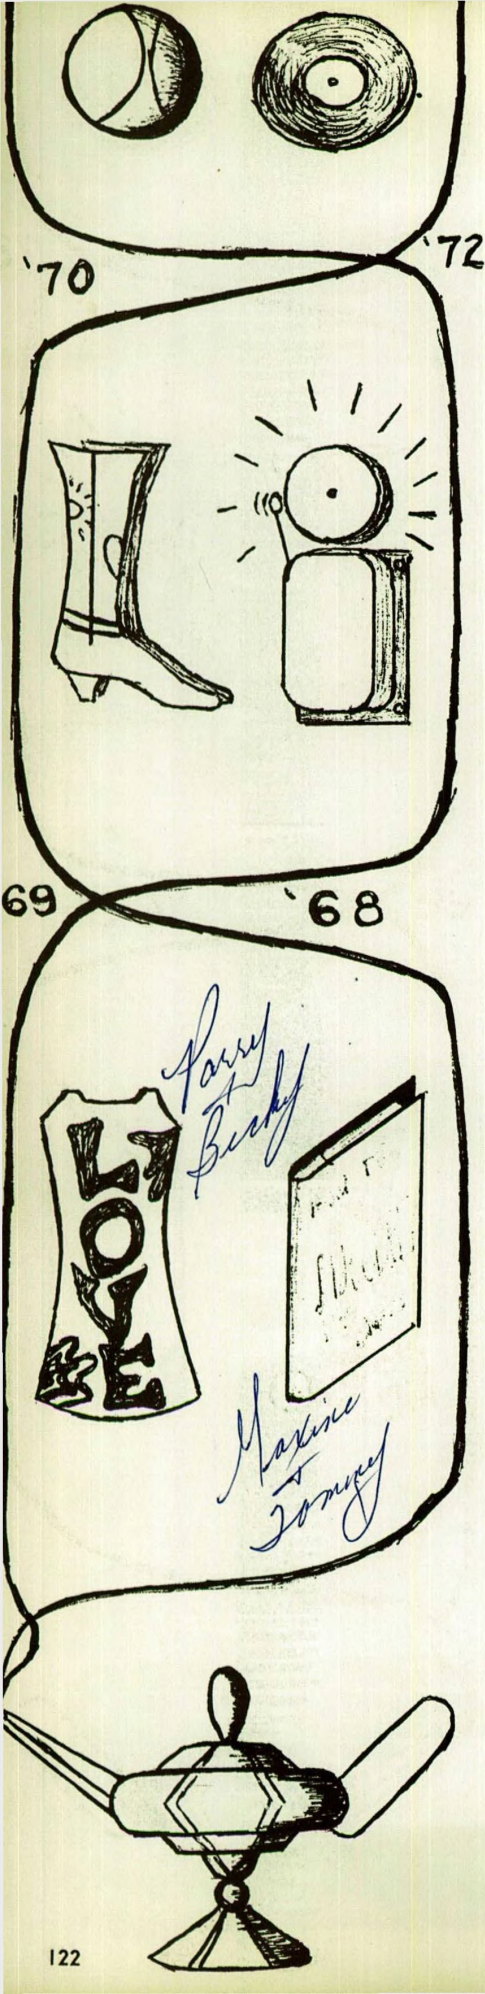

Marilyn Flanigan: a book of passes for sitting at Lorestans.

Delectrice Holiday: an emotional calendar to mark school day as you feel they should be Luis Lebron: buena suerta para ti.

Frank Jones: greeting from Chaucer and their old friends in Room 315.

Lynda Moody: future filled with custom made bosses.

Our love for you will never die . . .

Oh Alma Mater West Side High.

Best of Luck in the future may you get everything out of life that you have put into it, therefore
I know you will always be No. 1.
